

June Newsletter 2013

OFFICE TALK

Mid year has arrived, WOW already! The shortest day has been and gone, a positive turning point in the year - summer is on its way.

June has been a busy time in the rural calendar with Gypsy Day, Mystery Creek Fieldays, (for those lucky enough to attend), and it marks the end of the financial year for many in the rural sector. I'm sure this will go smoothly for you all, but if you have any issues regarding the procedures required, call us 03 445 1345

A: Decalfenated

Q: What happened to the lost cattle?

A: Nobody's herd.

NAIT UPDATE

NAIT has been enforced for 12 months now and have recently expanded the scheme to include identification and movement of deer. After this period we are confident you are all handling the process of recording and tracking tagged animals with ease. However, we are happy to provide refresher instructions on how to manage your obligations easily within LivestockOffice if you need some help.

Shearing News

Great news!!

Lisa our techno guru is rewriting the PAYSHR payroll and accounting program.

This has come about as Microsoft intends to end support for FoxPro in 2014. Other programs affected are all Office 2003 programs and Windows XP. If you are using these platforms, it may be a good time to look at upgrading.

Check out: <http://support.microsoft.com> for solutions and upgrade options.

Our new program will incorporate the great features of PAYSHR and will include many new features that have been in the pipeline to make your job easier. If you have any items on your wishlist that would be of benefit, let us know. We'll keep you informed on progress.

Our Software Survey

We recently sent out a survey to measure the satisfaction of our LivestockOffice software package. Thanks to everyone who took the time to complete it. I know everyone cringes when they see a survey. But we got some very pleasing results and some great comments to work on and make improvements. Your input is valuable to us in making sure we keep the software 'working for you'. If you didn't find time to complete it, your in luck, theres still time. Thanks again.
