REPLICATE SALE

With Grazing Sales increasing over the winter months, it is worth noting the Replicate Sale function on the sale options screen.

Available on all sales, but particularly useful for Grazing.

Simply change the date, no of days and cattle numbers if different.

OFFICE STUFF

What's been Happening

Six months into the year and a lot has been happening.

As you may know, Jenny retired at the start of this month.

After almost 30 years, from her early development of LivestockOffice to where we are today, she has made the decision to retire.

She has been threatening it for the past year or so but before heading away on a much deserved travelling holiday abroad, she decided that now the time was right. When she returns, Jenny plans to develop her home orchard more and concentrate on a few very social community groups.

If you know Jenny at all, you will know that she will remain an important figure in our office and although retired, she will not stay away for long, already insisting on covering any staffing short-falls whenever required.

She was sorry to have missed recent visitors to our office—Brian & Rae from Brian Robinson Livestock Ltd and Luke & Michelle from Butch Jurgens Livestock Ltd. No doubt she will catch up with you all soon.

Installed vs Cloud

There has been much discussion about Cloud-based vs Installed Software. With the popularity of cloud software and it's high growth rates, it was thought that traditional installed software would disappear. This is not the case and here are some reasons why we are here to stay.

- Accessibility

Access is available at anytime irrespective of internet connectivity.

- Control

You control your data, your back-ups, and your security.

- Speed

As fast as Internet connections have become, they still don't match the speed of a local area network (LAN—within an office or home environment)

- Functionality

Many installed products offer feature flexibility, integrated automation and a richness of functionality that is not easily reproducible in many Cloud products.

As developers we see new Cloud models emerging and envisage greater crossover between the two. As such, we continue to provide you the best software solution for your business.
